Armed Forces Day

chief of staff, U.S. Air Force; Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff; Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations; Gen. Leonard F. Chapman, Jr., commandant, U.S. Marine Corps.

Astronauts ready for final landing trial

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—A tiny helium leak was traced to a loose sensor in the Apollo 10 moonship early today to clear the way for Sunday's start of the final trial run for a manned lunar landing this summer.

The leak was quickly and easily repaired without interrupting the countdown for the 12:49 p.m. (EDT) launch of Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan.

The astronauts, meanwhile, took today off. They rested up for the climactic final hours of preparing for the mission the United States hopes will pave the way for a moon landing by Apollo 11 in July.

Weathermen continued to predict satisfactory conditions for the moonport Sunday and all other aspects of the mission were reported "go."

Apollo 10 is scheduled to orbit the moon a record 32 times and carry Stafford and Cernan to within 50,000 feet of the pockmarked lunar surface in a dress rehearsal for a landing.

The helium leak, first reported at 9:10 p.m. EDT Friday, was the first and only potentially serious problem to develop during the long countdown.

For four hours, officials did not know what effect it would have on Sunday's launch plans. But it was traced about 1 a.m. to a loose pressure sensor in the command ship's piping that was tightened on the spot.

"After it was tightened, no further leakage was detected," said a space agency spokesman.

The leak was slight and reduced pressure from 44 pounds to 37 pounds per square inch during a three day period in the system used to force propellants into the command module's vital re-entry control rocket. It was considered serious enough to require correcting before launch.

Cernan was expected to visit with his wife Barbara and their six-year-old daughter Teresa during some of his free time today. They are staying with friends nearby and plan to watch the shot.

The wives of Stafford and Young remained in Houston and the spacemen indicated they would spend a good part of the day at their spaceport quarters. Several mission officials were invited to lunch with the Apollo team.

The three astronauts put on their spacesuits Friday for a final dress rehearsal in spacecraft simulators for their blastoff on the riskiest space mission so far.

Council to act on resolution for dam project

The Lompoc City Council Tuesday night is expected to approve a strongly worded resolution urging the County Water Agency to support the Lompoc Dam project and to approve the Bureau of Reclamation's feasibility study of the project.

The council resolution will note that there is an urgent need to develop a supplemental municipal and industrial water supply for the city of Lompoc, Vandenberg Air Force Base and the Village and Mission Hills.

It also will point out that the groundwater basins serving this area already are in an overall state of overdraft and that the Lompoc project would provide recreation, flood control and fishery enhancement.

In addition to calling on the water agency to approve the project, the City Council is asking the county to seek the earliest practicable authorization and appropriation for initiation of the project.

Present estimates put the cost of the project at $67 million. If constructed, it will create a lake about 2½ times the size of Lake Cachuma.

The County Water Agency will meet May 27 in Santa Barbara in what most proponents and opponents of the project feel may be the meeting where the final decision is made.

The Santa Ynez River Water Conservation District will meet May 22 in another session which will affect the project. At its last meeting, the board voted 2-1 against endorsing the project. The upcoming meeting is to review the wording of the decision in written form.

In other actions Tuesday, council will: —Consider adopting a resolution asking the state legislature to authorize a bill that would equalize property taxes in all school districts. Purpose of the bill would be to afford the same level of education to all districts within the state.

—Hold the second reading and consider adopting amendments to the City Code as it relates to the Personnel System.

—Consider a resolution urging local citizens to participate in the "Valley of Flowers" theme during the month of June. If the resolution is adopted, each Friday will be officially declared Flower Display Day and citizens, businesses and institutions will be requested to display flowers. Citizens also will be urged to wear floral patterned clothing.

—Consider appointing new members to the Planning Commission, Library Board, Lompoc Beautification Committee and the Housing Code Board of Appeals.

—Hear a report from the Planning Commission regarding changes to the composition of the Architectural Review Committee.

—Hear a report from the city attorney regarding employee's group insurance and related benefits.

Lompocan dies as result of traffic crash

Services are pending today at McPeck Family Mortuary for Clifford W. Ruffner, 76, who passed away as a result of a traffic accident on the approach to the Harris Grade yesterday.

California Highway Patrol officers investigating the accident reported Mr. Ruffner drove off the road for no apparent reasons just prior to driving over the bridge on the Santa Maria side of the Harris Grade.

Mr. Ruffner resided at 609 North B Street in Lompoc. Survivors include a brother, Harold Ruffner.

Survey recommends 58 changes in city's police department

Findings and recommendations of an independent survey of the Lompoc Police Department were made public yesterday. The report recommends numerous changes in organization and function of the department.

The report was prepared by the Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training at the request of City Administrator Gene Wahlers.

In total, the two-man survey team recommended that approximately 58 changes be made in the local department including the elimination of the assistant chief position, transfer of property control to the Investigation Division and the transfer of the Identification Bureau to the Services Division.

The report also found little to substantiate the need for a parking control officer and it made "no recommendation to the number of patrolmen needed because total statistical data necessary for measurement is not now available," the survey team said.

The report also recommended that numerous changes be made in the administrative organization of the department and that training and records management be changed significantly.

City Administrator Gene Wahlers said yesterday that he would follow through on the recommendations and work with the department personnel in putting the recommendations into operation.

Wahlers said he will not eliminate the assistant chief position now occupied by Jim Smith but that the duties and the organizational alignment might be changed. He said that consideration is being given to re-aligning the position so that it functions as a right arm to the chief instead of the present set-up where all operations and functions flow through the assistant chief to the chief.

Wahlers said that he felt the Lompoc department had been going along pretty much as most small towns had and then came the population explosion which made a rather large city overnight. "The department grew personnel wise but didn't keep pace with all aspects of management and administrative techniques," Wahlers said.

The administrator noted that some recommendations, such as those dealing with records management, already are being implemented. He said he also would seek City Council approval to enroll Chief Ray Robertson in special police officer seminars at UCSB and take other steps to bring the department up to the level recommended by the commission.

The survey team noted that crime in Lompoc has fluctuated on the up side since 1966 which showed a 42 per cent increase over 1960. However, in the years 1967 and 1968 there were dramatic rises with the dominant factor being burglary which increased from 33 offenses in 1960 to 215 offenses in 1968.

There was a total of 376 major crimes in 1968, just a little more than one per day. "Compared with many other parts of the state and nation, the volume of crime in Lompoc today is not great. The people of Lompoc are fortunate that they live in a stable community which is not a part of a large metropolitan complex where crime and violence are rampant," the report stated.

Mission bells to ring to herald fiesta; thousands expected

La Purisima Mission's bells will ring for the first time in 12 years tomorrow as thousands are expected to gather for the annual La Purisima Mission fiesta at the State historical park.

The tower bells will peal at 11 a.m. signaling the start of the traditional Catholic Mass in the famed mission chapel, according to Robert Speers, el presidente.

The bells were made in Peru more than 100 years ago.

State officials will be in attendance at the Fiesta including Leonard Thompson, chairman of the State Park Commission; William Penn Mott, State director of beaches and parks; State Senator Robert Lagomarsino and Assemblyman W. Don MacGillivray. Robert C. Lilley will be master-of-ceremonies.

Highlight of this year's Fiesta will be 21 Mission demonstrations and work projects, carried out in the tradition of Mission days. These will include the operation of an olive press, grape squeezing, carpentry, tortilla making, weaving and candle dipping. The demonstrations will continue throughout the day.

The demonstrations have been organized through the efforts of Gene Forbes, member of the Mission Advisory Committee. Forbes stated that contributions will be accepted for small mementos which will be offered in the Mission store Sunday. Proceeds from the contributions will go toward furthering the volunteer work at the Mission.

Following Mass, fiesta visitors will be treated to the traditional free tortillas, beans, coffee and punch to be prepared and served by the Lompoc Rotary, Optimist, Lions and Kiwanis Clubs, with the cooperation of the Federal Correctional Institution kitchens. The lunch will be served from noon until 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. Victor Alves of La Purisima Court, Catholic Daughters of America, is coordinating meal serving for the Franciscan Seminary choir and ballet priests of Santa Barbara Mission, dignitaries and entertainers. Cooperating are the Alpha Club, Lompoc Community Woman's Club and the Women's Division of the Lompoc Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The Children's Costume Parade will begin at 1 p.m. with ribbons being awarded to the best costumes.

A full afternoon of Spanish musical entertainment will be provided by Jose Manero and his orchestra and ballet troupe from Santa Barbara.

Speers stated that nearly 10,000 visitors are expected for the annual event.

Wire news in brief

Student protests

By United Press International
Disruptions at California universities continued Friday as state and local police, augmented at one point by National Guardsmen, used tear gas, clubs and fixed bayonets to break up student demonstrations.

More than 1,000 students retreated before advancing police outside the UCLA faculty club in Los Angeles. They chanted "pigs off campus" and screamed obscenities as they moved away from the building where a meeting of the board of regents was in progress.

Police used tear gas to rout 700 Stanford University protesters who sent up flaming street barricades to block rush-hour traffic across the bay from San Francisco. The students, protesting war research at the 11,700-student school, retreated to open fields nearby and police ducked hurled rocks as they chased protesters three-quarters of a mile.

Navy salvage operation begins on submarine

VALLEJO, Calif. (UPI)—Navy salvage experts today hoped to start pumping 1300 tons of seawater out of a $50 million submarine sitting on the bottom of San Francisco Bay under 34 feet of water.

The USS Guittaro, an attack submarine undergoing final fittings at Mare Island shipyard, sank to the bottom of the bay in five minutes Thursday night as water poured into a forward compartment.

There were no injuries as 20 workmen scrambled to safety. They were unable to close watertight doors because of construction work.

About 10 feet of conning tower remains above water. The salvage operation will be so complex that the Navy Friday flew in their supervisor of salvage for the entire Pacific, Com. J.B. Orem, in from Pearl Harbor.

Rear Adm. Norbert Frankenberg, commander of the San Francisco Bay naval shipyards, said that "when we are satisfied we have taken care of the stability we will start pumping or blowing with air."

He explained that the greatest problem was to keep the 4,640-ton cigar-shaped vessel from rolling over during refloating attempts.

The navy could give no estimate of water damage to the sub's complex electronic equipment, although a spokesman said the figure could run into the millions.

Immortals are Sunday subject

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of this week's Bible lesson-sermon to be heard Sunday in all Christian Science churches.

"In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death." This verse from Proverbs 12 is the golden text.

A related passage in the lesson, from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, states: "Mortals are not like immortals, created in God's own image; but infinite Spirit being all, mortal consciousness will at last yield to the scientific fact and disappear, and the real sense of being, perfect and forever intact, will appear."

All are welcome at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 210 S. H St. Services begin at 11:00 a.m. Sunday School for those up to 20 years begins at 9:15 a.m.

He said the sub's nuclear reactor "was not aboard, thank God," and there is no danger of nuclear contamination.

He also declined all speculation as to the cause of the sinking pending investigation of the sub once it has been refloated.

The Guittaro was an advanced model of the Sturgeon class. The navy has built or started work on 26 Sturgeon class subs and has 10 more authorized.

Jimmy Roosevelt to leave hospital

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI)—The eldest son of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt recovered from a stab wound inflicted by his wife and said he would leave the hospital today or Sunday. James Roosevelt, 61, was stabbed in the back by his third wife, Gladys, at the doorway of their mansion in Vesenaz, an expensive suburb of Geneva, at 11 p.m. Thursday. He managed to reach the house of a neighbor, who called an ambulance.

The former California Congressman underwent emergency surgery but was in good enough shape shortly after the operation to call his lawyers, who issued a statement identifying Roosevelt's assailant as his wife.

She was taken to a clinic for observation. The lawyers said Mrs. Roosevelt, 48, recently had been treated for severe depression.

FBI arrests two in coed kidnapping

PETERSBURG, Va. (UPI)—FBI agents arrested two persons here early today on charges of kidnapping a 22-year-old University of Pennsylvania coed and holding her hostage for three days last week until her financier father paid $10,000 in ransom.

The arrests were announced by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell in Washington, about 125 miles northwest of this southern Virginia town.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover identified the individuals arrested as Edward Lee Dull, 39, and Alvina Marie Spriggs, 21, both of whom were said to be living in Baltimore when they allegedly kidnapped Anne Kathryn Jenkins a week ago today.

Assembly's version of Governor's $6.2 billion budget ready for vote

By DE VAN L. SHUMWAY
SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly version of Gov. Ronald Reagan's $6.2 billion budget—certain to become the subject of a partisan fight—was in position today for a vote by the lower House.

But Democrats hinted they might stage a revolt against the $6,227,906,401 spending program for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

They want more emphasis on such urban-oriented problems as unemployment, jobs for youth and housing for the poor. Some of them pledged last year to press for increased attention to these areas.

Democrats also may use the budget, which needs a two-thirds vote of the 80-member chamber, to force tax reform from the Republican-controlled legislature.

The Assembly now is divided 39-39 with two vacancies. An election is scheduled Tuesday to fill the seat vacated by John G. Veneman, undersecretary of health, education and welfare. That will make the lineup 40-39 for the winning party, probably still not enough to unseat Assembly Republicans even with a Democratic victory.

The budget needs 54 votes to pass. This means Republicans will need at least 14 Democratic votes to send the spending program to the Senate.

The Ways and Means Committee Friday unexpectedly approved the budget on a unanimous voice vote in its new form, $2.3 million more than the original money bill submitted by Reagan.

But Assemblyman Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda, committee vice chairman, said his vote in the panel did not tie him to favoring the bill on the floor. Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada, Ways and Means chairman, disclosed that Democrats planned to present a "list of demands for changes" when the bill comes up for floor debate.

"The budget is a very tight budget," he said. "I just can't contemplate what the Democrats want. Their arguments generally will be more political than practical."

Before acting, the committee adopted a rider by Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Piedmont, to forbid expenditure of any state money for state scholarships, loans, fellowships and grants-in-aid for any student convicted of participating in a violent demonstration.

The Mulford provision makes a presumption that any student who accepts state aid in attending school agrees "to observe the rules and regulations promulgated by the (university or college) governing authority."

The major—and unsuccessful—objections came from Democratic Assemblyman Charles R. Warren, Los Angeles, and John L. Burton, San Francisco. Warren said it added "another penalty" for the poor and Burton objected because it "singles out poor people," who need and get state help.

The rider is similar to a bill introduced by Lanterman and endorsed by the Assembly Select Committee on Campus Disturbances in a report made public Thursday.

In its final act, the committee approved a 5.5 per cent tax boost for 183,500 state employees, including professors at the University of California and state colleges.

Student communications main topic of regents

By M. DEAN HILL
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan, University of California regents and other school officials agree student lines of communication to university administrations must be opened further.

But no one is sure if this will help avert further campus disorder.

The agreement came after about 1,000 noisy militants at UCLA demanded an audience with Reagan and the regents Friday, but instead got ousted from the board's monthly meeting and confronted outside with campus and city police.

Reagan said the rapid growth of the university made "keeping the channels of communication open with the students" imperative.

The governor, asked if allowing the militants to address the board might have stopped the demonstration before it began, replied, "No...I don't think it would have averted it."

He said that the militants couldn't "have it both ways" by first demanding more autonomy and communications on their own campuses, then demanding the right to go around the administration directly to the board of regents. He said this "undercut the authority of school administrators."

The fireworks began when members of a group called the Coalition, made up of Students for a Democratic Society and other militant organizations, tried to pack the small audience of the meeting and present a list of demands.

They ended when some 125 Los Angeles police officers and California highway patrolmen moved down the street outside the faculty-center—their nightsticks held at waist level—sweeping aside the crowd.

There were no physical clashes between students and officers. Instead, demonstrators backed up, chanting "pigs off campus" and shouting obscenities. Two persons were arrested earlier on charges of battery, resisting an officer and trespassing and one coed was detained.

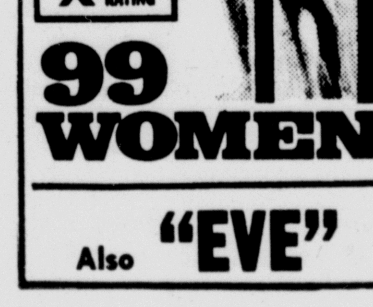

Charles J. Hitch, of the nine-campus university, said after the board meeting that efforts were underway throughout the system to "improve ways that students can express their grievances."

Employees' group agrees more than disagreement

"We agree in more areas than we disagree," was the way County Employees' Assn. manager Zack Stringer put it today in discussing new county salary recommendations to be placed before the Board of Supervisors Monday.

Stringer, while frankly admitting that "in many areas we are pleased with the recommendations," said there were other areas where "questions will be raised and still others where we disagree."

The full picture on county salary recommendations by county officials evolved Friday after submission of higher pay for county hospital help. The earlier survey had not included hundreds of hospital workers.

Stringer said that the association is now awaiting presentation of a proposed overtime policy by Administrative Officer Raymond D. Johnson. There have been indications that a formula of time and a half pay over the regular working week may be applied. Cost of this — as figured in the new county budget for 1969-70 fiscal year — would depend on how it is controlled by department heads, Stringer felt.

County Employees' Assn. officials in general said they feel that they have had too little time in the past few days to give proper analysis to the partial county salary survey which they began to look over Tuesday and the new hospital pay survey which they were studying Friday.

"We must have this material in time to react intelligently," said Stringer. "As it is, we have had to burn the midnight oil in going over it — with little time left for action if it is to go into effect July 1. We feel we shouldn't have to stay up late nights on this."

New State legislation effective this year requires a memo of understanding between county officials and county employee groups on issues such as pay proposals. The employees' organization understanding of the law appears to be nullified by a recent ruling by the county counsel, Stringer said.

Further discussions of the effect of the new law appear to be in order at this time, Stringer felt.

The County Employees' Assn. has about 60 per cent of the total of 2,000 county employees in its membership. Other employees belong to the Sheriff's Relief and Benefit Assn. and the AFL-CIO Welfare Workers' Union, or belong to no group.

Monster hunters travel for Loch Ness 'hunt'

By ALVIN B. WEBB
DRUMNADROCHIT, Scotland (UPI)—Monster-hunters from all over the world travelled the high road to Scotland today in pursuit of the Loch Ness monster.

As the official hunting season opened, Nessie, who lurks deep in the murky waters of Loch Ness—Scotland's largest and most beautiful lake—was keeping out of sight.

For the past few days, monster-watchers — many of whom start a hunting day at the crack of dawn—have stood at the lake's edge and craned their necks in hopes of getting a peek at the elusive underwater creature whom Scots have decided is simply shy.

The only thing that broke the water's bright blue surface was an occasional sharp highland wind.

Some say Nessie is an overgrown sea-cow. Others think she is a long-necked seal. Centuries-old reports tell of a huge hunch-backed "fearsome

Senate bill opposition considered

Supervisor Joe J. Callahan, of Santa Barbara, said today he is requesting the Board of Supervisors to adopt a resolution opposing a senate bill which would levy a four-cent tax on each $100 assessed valuation to reimburse for loss of revenue due to creation of agricultural preserves.

The county has approved formation of preserves totalling well over 200,000 acres, but recently decided to put off action on 12 additional proposed preserves until next fall, pending an overall look at the program's impact and the possibility of further state legislation affecting the preserve program.

Callahan said he will ask the supervisors to take action Monday at their weekly meeting in Santa Barbara County Administration Building.

Callahan has been a steady opponent of the agricultural preserve program along with Mrs. Martin Hussander, also of Santa Barbara, a member of the County Planning Commission. The planning body earlier this year failed to approve several applications for preserves where large amounts of non-prime land was involved.

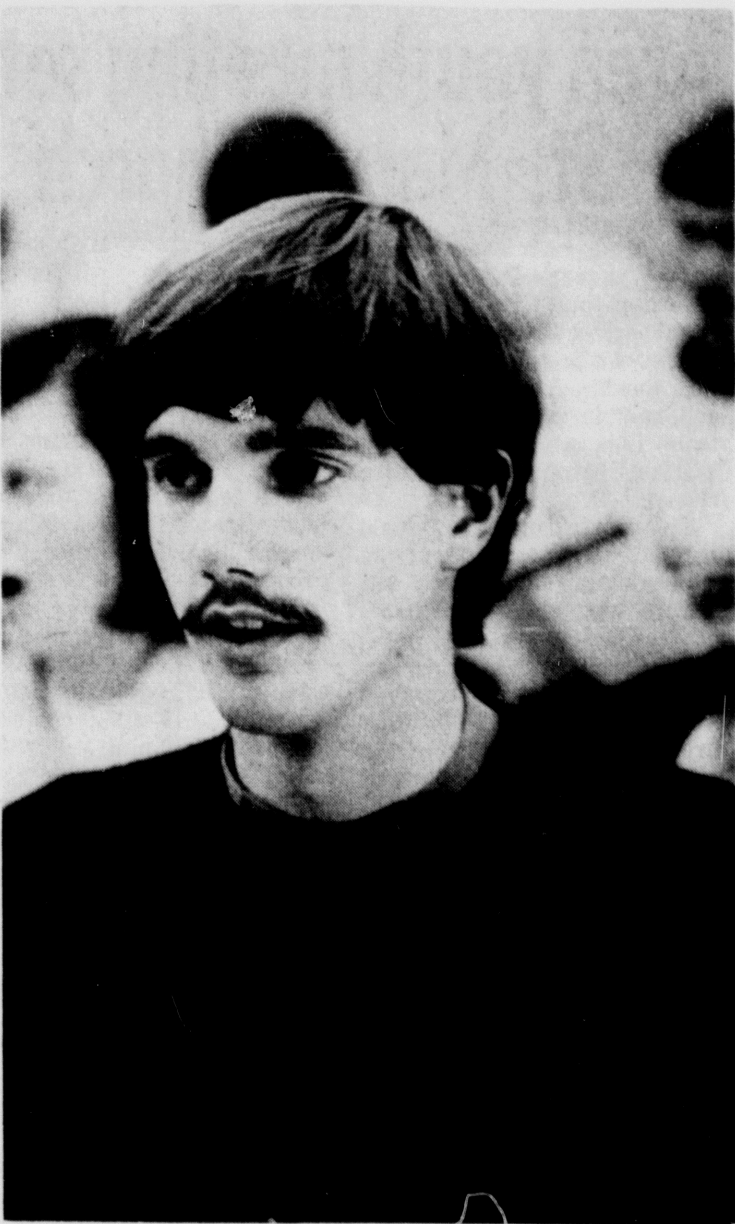

On the Planning Commission level, Michael J. Henry, of Carpinteria, and commission chairman Richard Clare, of Santa Maria, have also opposed a number of applications recently.

DA to speak at meeting of UROC

The United Republicans of California (UROC) Unit No. 276, will hold its meeting at the Golden Greek Restaurant, Thursday, May 22. Dinner will be at 7 p.m. The meeting will start at 8 p.m.

The public is cordially invited. For details and dinner reservations, contact Mrs. Robert E. Hough at RE 6-5301 or Mrs. Margaret Vickers at RE 6-6433.

The songs are the creation of LHS music instructor, Larry Delinger, and will include Elizabethan and contemporary American poems set to music. Stevens, who plans to enter USC this fall, was first place winner of the USC music scholarship auditions this March. He currently studies with Hollywood voice teacher William Eddy. The concert is sponsored by the Lompoc High School Madrigal Singers, with guest artists from the Lompoc Music Association and a performance by the Adult Chamber Singers. Admission is 50 cents for students, 75 cents for adults.

meeting May 27. Citizens were urged by officials to sign and return the card contained in their billing.

Welfare budget increases

The county welfare budget for 1969-70 appears to be rising constantly and looks to be going "out of sight" at this time, County Administrative Officer Raymond D. Johnson revealed today.

Earlier, it had been shown that the welfare budget — which has had to be redone by county budget analysts in recent weeks — would be at record proportions in the coming fiscal year due, in part at least, to the waiving of one-year residency requirements for welfare client applicants coming here from other states.

The impact of this high court decision has been heavy in recent months, and a greater impact is seen for the coming fiscal year.

Johnson said today he will have to make some provision, also, in the contingency fund for next fiscal year to take care of overtime. He expects to submit an overtime policy by May 26 to the supervisors based on time and a half above regular work week.

One of the greatest problems in the sheriff's department in recent years has been the accumulation of thousands of hours of overtime by officers and others on the staff on the claim that the working force has been insufficient. Suitable staffing for the sheriff's office in the coming year must be made to counter this problem, Johnson said.

$1.5 million hike in budget seen

Confirmation of earlier reports that the 1969-70 county salary budget could be upped more than $1.5 million over the present $20 million figure has been given by county budget officials.

County Administrative Officer Raymond D. Johnson is presenting new salary recommendations to the Board of Supervisors Monday which average a bit less than 4.5 per cent. But the salary question may not be resolved for another week or more.

County Employees Assn. officials, who had pointed out that an average five per cent raise would add approximately $1 million to the salary budget, have been conferring with Personnel Officer Robert Smith on the question of increasing certain salary recommendations.

Johnson, in planning to back up salary recommendations effective July 1 as drawn up by the personnel staff, has estimated they would cost an added $600,000 if adopted, with possibly another $400,000 for the coming fiscal year on readjustments effective Jan 1 next year.

It was learned this $1-million figure would not take into account the costs of retirement, social security and other fringe benefits. Up to another half million could be involved in that case.

HOUSTON (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, in Texas for a speech, joked Wednesday about student unrest at campuses in his state. "I am willing to engage in a student exchange program with anyone," he said.

Equestrian trail plan presented to groups

Full explanation of the general plan in the county for equestrian and hiking trails — which will be presented at a public hearing June 4 in Santa Barbara before the County Planning Commission — was presented in Buellton before representatives of the County Farm Bureau, County Cattleman's Assn. and other groups.

Taking part in the meeting in Buellton also were members of the County Advisory Trails Committee.

The arrangements for the meeting were made by Willie Chamberlain, Los Olivos area rancher.

Assistant County Counsel Dana Smith answered questions regarding liability, which is of principal concern to the private landowner.

George Kammer, of the County Planning Department staff, outlined the proposed trails for the six districts involved in the county-wide plan which has been developing over a period of years.

Persons who had the feeling that the trails plan was being rushed through without consideration for private landowners were said to be greatly reassured by information obtained at the meeting.

The plan was shown as serving as an outline for possible trails and none of the trails on private land can be developed without first receiving consent of the landowner, it was stressed. The county will not exercise the right of eminent domain to secure trails and the private property owner may name conditions under which he will grant an easement or sell land for a trail.

The institute said Cooley failed to consult Baylor's committee for human investigation before the operation. The committee established guidelines requiring all human "experimental" devices be approved by the group before being used in clinical operations.

Liotta's part in the operation "is the first instance anybody knows of involving a violation" of federal guidelines over research or use of artificial organs, the institute said.

Cooley has not been notified on any possible disciplinary actions by the Baylor committee, according to a spokesman at St. Luke's Hospital in Houston.

It is a sad thing indeed to watch declarer mangle a slam contract. Of course, if you are defending the hand your sorrow may be tempered with a slight amount of pleasure.

There was nothing wrong with South's two no-trump call and North certainly had a sound slam bid. In fact, North felt that he might be missing seven but North had seen his partner perform on other occasions and decided on a conservative course.

South won the spade lead, looked over dummy carefully and noted that he had 11 top tricks plus opportunities for a 12th in any one of three suits. Then he cashed the rest of the spades to see what would happen. He found out that West had started with five spades and that East could afford a diamond discard.

South cashed three clubs and once more East let a diamond go. Then South tried the hearts. This time it was West who showed out on the third lead. Of course, West discarded a spade. South now had a perfect count. He knew that West had started with two diamonds and still held both of them and that East had started with five and still held three. Clearly the odds favored finding the queen of diamonds in the East hand. South led to dummy's ace, finessed his jack and was two down when West took his diamond queen and the last club.

Do you see where South mangled the hand? He had a sure thing. All he had to do was to throw East in with the last heart. East would have to lead a diamond and it wouldn't matter where the queen was. South would pick it up automatically.

County fair board aims for biggest fair ever

Fair directors for the Santa Barbara County Fair met this week at the Fair Grounds in Santa Maria. The Fair will get off to a running start with the inclusion of the first Annual Santa Barbara County Fair Ten Mile Run, according to Robert Baker, Secretary - Manager.

The Ten Mile Run was proposed by Sgt. Lawrence E. Collings, VAFB. Starting line will be at Le Roy Park in Guadalupe, and the finish will be at the Fair Grounds. The race will be run on the first day of the fair, July 22nd. Trophies and ribbons will be awarded. Clarence Minetti, board member, added to the awards a trophy and two dinners at the Far Western Tavern in Guadalupe.

Board members went on record as opposing Assembly Bill 1916, now in committee in Sacramento. This bill as proposed by Harvey Johnson, assemblyman from El Monte, drastically curtails financial allocations to fairs throughout the state.

James Isbell, Cal-Poly student, was introduced to the board. Isbell was selected to serve a fair management internship at the Santa Barbara County Fair. He is a sophomore at Cal-Poly with a major in agricultural business management.

Judges appointed at the meeting included: Ralph Vohries, Duane Seaburg, Paul Fountain, Hilton Sumida, Gerald Sato, George Gomes, all of Cal-Poly; Madeline Colli, Doris Raul, Pat Hamman, Billie Carpenter, June Heitz, Mable Pereira, Barbara Rivas, Shirley Vernon, and Sara Thomas, of Santa Maria; Mrs. Frank Costa and Dolores Huyck, from Lompoc; Ida Gularde from Arroyo Grande; and Vincent Rubatsky of Davis.

Bids for black - topping the parking areas were opened, but awarding was delayed until a special meeting of the board could be called in ten days or two weeks, since the low bid exceeded the budgeted amount. Roofing bid was let to Coy Rich, low bidder.

During the Fair, July 22nd through July 27th, Art Schaefer of El Centro has asked for permission to exhibit Charolais cattle. The board accepted Schaefer's offer.

The Board discussed the construction program for added building on the Fair ground site. With the cost of construction rising about one per cent a month, the board hopes to hurry into construction of the com-

Purple Heart given local Army private

U.S. Army private Dave Ross has been awarded the Purple Heart, following an intensive battle near the Cambodia-South Vietnam border, the Record learned today. Ross is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Allison Ross, Jr. of 4169 Constellation Road. He has just returned to Lompoc for a 30-day recuperation from shrapnel and other wounds incurred in his leg, kneecap and back.

Ross and nine other members of his battalion in the 27th Infantry Wolfhound, 25th Division, were surrounded and pinned down 5½ hours by enemy mortar fire. Relief came only after the enemy retreated to the border to regroup, said Ross. "We could see the whites of their eyes as they went by, they were that close," he remembers. "But they didn't bother us; they thought we were all dead."

The 1968 Cabrillo High School graduate and his comrades were awarded the Purple Heart the following day, April 7, at the 12th MediVac Hospital at their base camp at Cu Chi.

ination Fair and Civic building as soon as possible.

Friends of the Fair from Lompoc were special guests of the Board for the barbecue that followed the meeting.

Fair board members considered a multitude of problems to make the "California Kaleidoscope" the greatest fair ever. In 1968 over 400 horses were entered in events at the Santa Barbara County Fair. This year that figure is expected to increase. How to fit the expected added numbers into the 283 existing stalls will be partly solved by the acquisition of 140 rental stalls. Remaining horses will be using their own trailers.

The Board will meet next on June 10th.

County officials on missions

Santa Barbara County officials many of them—were absent from their desks in the County Administration Building late this week.

They are on missions to Sacramento, Monterey, and Washington, D.C. on county business. Supervisor George H. Clyde is flying to the nation's capitol Friday with others to be prepared to testify on behalf of Sen. Alan Cranston's bill seeking to prohibit oil drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel.

Board of Supervisors chairman Francis H. Beattie, of Lompoc, and Supervisor Daniel G. Grant, of Goleta Valley, meanwhile are in Sacramento attending sessions of the State Assn. of County Supervisors.

Grant is a director of the association and its tax committee chairman, while Beattie is a member of its law enforcement committee.

John P. Whittemore, intergovernmental services director of the county, is in Monterey, attending a two-day session of executive officers of various Local Agency Formation Commissions. Whittemore is also executive officer of LAFCO in this county.

Braves get clutch CIF play

QUARTZ HILL catcher Dave Goodell awaits sliding Lompoc centerfielder Bobby Howell to put the tag on for the third out in the Braves two-run first inning attack. Howell, who was three for four for the day, had singled in the inning to score leadoff batter Carlos Gonzales, Lompoc advances to a second round game against St. Paul's of Santa Fe Springs on Tuesday.

By BILL COCKSHOTT
Sports Editor

Scoring on a sacrifice fly to left field in the bottom of the eighth inning, the Lompoc Braves captured a 4-3 triumph over the visiting Quartz Hill Rebels yesterday in an opening round CIF "AAA" division playoff game.

The victory moved Lompoc to a second round meeting with St. Paul's of Santa Fe Springs Tuesday at a site to be determined. St. Paul's, winner of the Angelus League, is the top seeded team in the "AAA" level and drew a first round bye.

Yesterday it was relief pitcher Roy Thomas who drove in the winning run, flying out to left field to give shortstop Bobby Grossini a chance to come in from third after hitting a triple off the left centerfield fence.

Thomas' effort made up for a game-tying home run pitch served by Thomas in the top of the seventh to pinchhitter Larry Ray.

The Lompoc sophomore righthander had taken over for starter Tony Schutz in the seventh after Schutz gave up a walk to catcher Dave Goodell. Thomas then threw out the next batter before giving up the homer to Ray.

After a lone single by the Braves in the bottom of the seventh, Thomas appeared in trouble as he proceeded to load the bases on a single and two fielders' choices that left all runners safe. He then struck out the next batter and caught an attempted bunt by sophomore catcher Dan Clary and threw to Roy Howell at third for the force on the runner to end the inning.

Thomas picked up the win as he and Schutz scattered six hits while the Braves touched three Rebel hurlers for a total of 11 hits with reliever Phil Vaughn being charged with the loss.

Lompoc opened the game by scoring twice in the first inning on a walk to leadoff batter Carlos Gonzales and a single by Roy Howell with Gonzales coming in on a single by Bobby Howell. Roy Howell then went to third on a wild pitch and came in on an overthrow by Goodell while Bobby was tagged out at the plate trying to score after a fly out to left by Dave Stegman.

Loading the bases in the fifth, Lompoc added one more run when Roy Howell walked, moved to second on a single by catcher Tom Harmon and scored on a single — the third of the day by Bobby Howell. But before the Braves could do any more damage, lefty relief pitcher Dale Burton came in to shut the door.

Bobby Howell led the Braves hitting, going three for four while Harmon and Stegman were both two for three. Schutz struck out five, walked two and gave up four hits in six innings while Thomas gave up a pair of hits, a walk and a strikeout in his two innings of work for his eighth win against two losses.

Cubs explode in seventh to shatter Houston, 11-0

By JOE CARNICELLI

UPI Sports Writer

If perfect balance is the measure of a solid pennant contender then the Chicago Cubs may breeze to the National League flag.

Balance remained the keyword as the Cubs, blending powerful hitting with masterful pitching for the fifth consecutive game, ripped the Houston Astros, 11-0, Friday night, scoring 10 runs in the seventh inning.

Ken Holtzman pitched a three-hit shutout, the third in the last four games for Chicago, as the Cubs boosted their lead in the NL's Eastern Division to six games over Pittsburgh.

Glenn Beckert, Ron Santo, Randy Hundley and Don Young drove in two runs each in the big inning as the Cubs parlayed nine hits and three intentional walks to shatter a 1-0 pitching duel between Holtzman and Larry Dierker.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia downed San Francisco, 3-1, New York outlasted Cincinnati, 10-9, Atlanta beat Montreal, 7-5, in 12 innings, San Diego nipped St. Louis, 2-1, and Los Angeles edged Pittsburgh, 4-3.

Richie Allen hit a two-run homer in the fifth inning and left-hander Woody Fryman worked out of three inning jams as the Phils downed the Giants.

Willie Mays hit his 591st career home run in the fourth for the only Giant run before Don Money singled with two out and Allen followed with his sixth homer of the season.

Pinch-hitter Rod Gaspar laced a two-run single and Tommie Agee followed with a two-run triple to highlight a six-run seventh inning rally that lifted the Mets over the Reds.

The game, held up for 21 minutes because of rain in the seventh inning, was marked by a fight between first baseman Ed Kranepool of the Mets and first base coach Jimmy Bragan of Cincinnati. The pair was quickly separated and neither was ejected.

Pinch-hitter Ivan Murrell singled with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth inning to score Jose Arcia with the winning run as the Padres downed the Cardinals.

Tito Francona's first home run of the season—a two-run blast with two out in the top of the 12th inning—powered Atlanta to its triumph over the Expos. Francona's homer came after reliever Elroy Face walked Mike Lum with two out.

The victory may have been a costly one for the Braves, however. First baseman Orlando Cepeda, one of the team's hottest hitters during the past week, was struck in the head by one of Billy Stoneman's pitches. His helmet was cracked but he left the field on his feet. Cepeda reported to the hospital and will remain until at least this afternoon.

Willie Crawford's two-run homer with one out in the ninth inning rallied the Dodgers over Pittsburgh. The Pirates scored three times in the top of the ninth to take a 3-2 lead before Len Gabrielson walked and Crawford homered, his fourth of the season.

Rain may delay Indy pole battle

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)

—Speedway demon drivers challenged the records and their own bravery today as 500-mile time trials opened with dapper little Mario Andretti favored for the coveted pole position.

Weather permitting, qualifications before an anticipated crowd of more than 250,000 were scheduled to open at 11 a.m. (EDT) with the pole berth — the inside position on the first row for the Memorial Day race — going to the fastest first day racer.

There was a 60 per cent chance of rain.

A consensus poll of 20 top drivers showed it would take a four-lap average of 172.532 m.p.h., to win the pole.

There appeared little doubt that the one and four-lap records of 171.953 and 171.559 m.p.h. would be eclipsed if the weather was favorable.

Only on turbocar was entered this time and its status for this weekend's trials was doubtful. Andy Granatelli, meanwhile, entered an 11-car team headed by Andretti and former winner Graham Hill.

A season high of 43 cars made practice runs Friday, marred by only minor mishaps.

Granada will air Indy race

MCA TV will present the 1969 Indianapolis 500-Mile Race, the world's largest sports event, live, via closed-circuit television, in over 175 theatres and arenas in the U.S. and Canada on Friday, May 30th, including the Granada Theatre in Santa Barbara.

This sports spectacle is the only event to receive annual international closed-circuit coverage and has been beamed to Europe via Early Bird Satellite, the Far East via Loral Bird Satellite as well as to Mexico, Central and South America via a special cable network.

Charlie Brockman and two-time Indy winner Roger Ward will man microphones and provide color commentary. The pair will head a ten man announcing team comprised of men in the pits, garage area and around the track, giving instantaneous information as the 500-mile race unfolds.

All seats at the Granada Theatre are reserved and are priced at $6.50. Tickets are on sale now at Washburn Chevrolet, 614 Chapala, and the Granada Theatre box office.

Yankees foil bid by Angels

By VITOSTELLINO

UPI Sports Writer

Bill Rigney couldn't be accused of not having faith in his starting pitcher Friday night.

Rigney, the California Angel manager who has the reputation of giving his starters the quick hook, decided to let his starter—Rudy May—pitch to the American League RBI leader — Bobby Murcer — with runners on second and third and two out in the ninth inning.

But Murcer foiled the strategy by blooming a ground rule double right down the left field line just a couple of feet from the lunging Vic Davallito that gave the New York Yankees a 2-1 victory over the Angels.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore edged Kansas City, 5-3, in 11 innings, Chicago topped Washington, 7-6, New York nipped California, 2-1, Oakland blanked Cleveland, 3-0, and Seattle edged Boston, 10-9, in 11 innings. The Detroit-Minnesota game was rained out so Willie Horton didn't miss a game even though he missed the trip.

Daring running by Bill Robinson and Tom Tresh set the stage for Murcer's winning hit. Tresh singled with two out to left field and Robinson rounded second and headed to third as startled left-fielder Lou Johnson made a poor throw to third. Tresh then made a head-first slide into second to beat the cutoff throw by Jim Fregosi.

Seattle erupted for six runs in the top of the 11th to edge Boston, which came back with five in the last of the 11th. Two-run homers by John Kennedy and Wayne Comer—his second of the game—and a solo blast by Tommy Harper highlighted the Seattle rally.

Dick Green hit a two-run homer in the seventh and Danny Cater added a solo shot in the ninth as Oakland beat Cleveland. John Odom pitched a seven-hitter to become the first seven-game winner in the majors this year.

Rookie Carlos May hit a 10th-inning homer to offset three homers by Mike Epstein and give the White Sox the victory over the Senators. Frank Howard and Brant Alyea also homered in the losing cause for Washington.

Frank Robinson's two-out single scored two runs in the 11th inning and gave Baltimore the victory over Kansas City. The Orioles started the inning with a pair of walks but then Mark Belanger hit into a double play. But Paul Blair beat out a bunt to set the stage for Robinson's winning hit.

Stock car action goes under lights tonight

Stock car drivers will be once again matching wits in tonight's championship stock car races at the Santa Maria Speedway.

The evening race will provide one more chance to better the qualifying speeds for the Daytona 100. Bob Taylor, from Lompoc, will be going into tonight's race with the fastest qualifying speed of 18:69. Ronnie Souza of Santa Maria holds down the second spot with 18:76. Bobby Randolph, also of Santa Maria is clinging to third fastest with a 19:07 while Don Simkins is off Randolph's time by just one hundredth of a second at 19:08 for fourth slot.

Tonight's race, however, will vary likely change a lot of things as it is predicted by chief steward Harold Rose that the speedway surface will be a good

Action will begin with the holding of field events at 11:30 a.m. with the first running event scheduled for 12:30 p.m. at the Cabrillo track, according to Cabrillo mentor Maury Sipes.

Teams expected to enter in addition to Cabrillo and always powerful Santa Ynez, include Compton, Crown Cities, Lakewood, Mickey's Missiles of San Diego, Ontario-Montclair, Oxnard, Rialto Road Runners, Santa Paul, Simi Valley Striders, San Gabriel and the Southern California Missiles.

Rams-Colts meeting will kickoff '69 NFL slate

NEW YORK (UPI)—A full, eight-game slate will open the 50th anniversary season of the National Football League Sunday, Sept. 21—the latest start-date in nine years.

A battle between the league champion Baltimore Colts and the Los Angeles Rams at Baltimore highlights the first week's play.

In other opening games, Chicago is at Green Bay, Cleveland at Philadelphia, Detroit at Pittsburgh, Minnesota at New York, St. Louis at Dallas, San Francisco at Atlanta and Washington at New Orleans.

The New Orleans Saints will be in the Capitol Division with Dallas, Philadelphia and Washington this year and the New York Giants in the Century Division with Cleveland, Pittsburgh and St. Louis. New York was in the Capitol and New Orleans in the Century last year.

In the Western Conference, Chicago, Detroit, Green Bay and Minnesota are in the Central Division and Atlanta, Baltimore, Los Angeles and San Francisco in the Coastal division.

Each NFL team will play home-and-home games with each member of its division, single games with each team in the other division of its conference and single games with each team in one division of the other conference, for a total of 14 games, Capitol Division teams will play interconference games with the Coastal Division, and Century Division teams will play interconference games with the Central Division.

The Sept. 21 start of the regular season is the latest NFL kickoff since the 12-week season in 1960 began on Sept. 23. The 1969 season will end Sunday, Dec. 21, followed by conference championship games on Dec. 27 and Dec. 28, the NFL championship game Jan. 4, and the Super Bowl game with the American Football League champion Jan. 11.

The 1969 season will be the last for the NFL in its present alignment. Beginning next year, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Cleveland will compete with teams presently in the AFL in what will be known as the NFL's American Conference. Other teams in the NFL will compete in the National Conference. The result will be a 26-team NFL split into two 13-team conferences.

Each NFL team's Sunday schedule will be televised regionally, and five regular-season games will be carried nationally. Scheduled for national TV coverage are New York at Dallas, Monday, Oct. 27; Minnesota at Detroit (day) and San Francisco at Dallas (evening), Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27; Chicago at San Francisco, Saturday, Dec. 6; and Baltimore at Dallas, Saturday, Dec. 13.

UCLA takes loop baseball crown

By United Press International

The UCLA Bruins are the champions of the Pacific-8 Conference baseball battle. The Bruins, behind the hard-hitting duo of Steve Price and Jake Molina, posted a 9-4 victory over University of Southern California Friday to grab the crown.

The win gave the Bruins a 16-4 Pac-8 record, one game better than that of Stanford but conference commissioner Tom Hamilton has ruled that in the event of a tie, UCLA will be declared the winner because of its series edge over the Indians.

UCLA meets the Trojans again today and Stanford plays California in conference closing games.

Suing ourselves

The fiscal repercussions of the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling that residency cannot constitutionally be held a factor in any state's welfare program have been thoroughly discussed. Californian Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare commented that to say the new liberalization "will have a substantial impact on federal and state budgets is a massive understatement." Even Chief Justice Warren, dissenting, warned of the ruling's probable impact on state requirement in voting, schooling or working.

Underneath the major consideration, however, is a factor that also is disturbing to many people. The high court's ruling came on appeals resulting from a nationwide legal campaign on behalf of welfare clients by legal service units of the Office of Economic Opportunity, a tax supported agency of the federal government.

There have been, as well, many cases of OEO tax financed agencies fighting state and local regulations. In San Francisco, for instance, the Legal Assistance Foundation took up the cudgels for a group of racial minority tenants for a hotel that had been declared a fire trap by its owners and by city officials but who didn't want to move, despite a blaze that killed three of their number.

Transparently ideological adventures by government agencies against other governmental bodies and private industry put the taxpayer in the position of suing himself. The new directors of OEO, it is hoped, will find better, more needful and more legitimate ways of using our tax dollars.

Is this trip necessary!?

The script is familiar.

Demonstrators greet the distinguished American visitor with signs bluntly inviting him to go home. A small army of security men surrounds him and in one Central American capital, fears for his life cut short the d.A.V.'s visit.

It could be a scene from then-Vice President Nixon's celebrated Latin tour in 1958, which reached a high, or low, point with the stoning of his car in Caracas, Venezuela. Or it could be from almost any of many visits by similarly high-placed North Americans in years before and since.

These happen, however, to be incidents on New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's current fact-finding tour for President Nixon.

It is a sad commentary on American policy toward Latin America that after so many years of effort and expenditure a representative from Washington can still expect to be greeted by expressions of public hostility, deliberately organized and representing only a minority of the population as such demonstrations may often be.

But it is perhaps even sadder that Washington's repeated reaffirmations of concern for our neighbors to the south seem so often to take the same unimaginative course, a whirlwind tour by d.A.V.

Rockefeller, to be sure, has first-class credentials for such a mission. The domestic political angles aside, his expertise dates back to the Roosevelt administration when he laid the foundations of his political career as a State Department specialist on Latin America.

He draws on a reservoir of experience matched by few other such distinguished Americans as he listens to complaints on U.S. political and economic policies, complaints that are supposed to provide guidelines for Washington's latest revision of its design for living with our chronically much poorer Latin relations.

But the question can still be asked: Is this trip necessary? It will be surprising if Rockefeller hears anything new. It will be even more surprising if the mission results in radical changes in U.S. policy or significant progress in lifting Latin America from its economic and social morass.

It is difficult to see what significantly fresh information Rockefeller can be expected to bring back that could not be transmitted by long-established channels of communication, by U.S. embassies and the myriad special missions in Latin America.

High-level missions such as Rockefeller's may have their value as headline-grabbing gestures of American interest. But considering the opportunity for anti-American demonstrations they present, they too often run the risk of being self-defeating. And, at best, all too often they arouse hopes that cannot be fulfilled.

The script certainly needs to be changed. A moratorium for a time on distinguishing American visitors might be a good place to start.

SDS dictum

WASHINGTON (NEA)

The Students for a Democratic Society Organizers Manual for student activists infiltrating industry this summer is quite explicit in telling the volunteers what they must do and not do on the job.

"Don't start sounding off the first day on the job; or even the first week," the manual warns. "Do your work, learn your job . . . Learn from the workers. About the work, the job, the history of the plant, company, union, their attitudes on every question. Listen. You might find out who the flinks are. Participate in the bull sessions, the lunch discussions, talking on the job where it's normal, but take it slow the first 3 or 4 weeks . . . listening and sounding out workers."

"Your job," says the manual, "is to bring across the identity of interests of students and workers . . . that the working class is the class with the power, that workers really create the values of society, that without them basic changes in the system can't happen . . .

"But you're there with a purpose — to bring out the relationship of the Vietnam and the other imperialist wars to their immediate demands, to the fact that they and their sons die in the war, that it is a war for the rich — the Class perspective . . . This is no easy task . . . But at least you are able to question, to point out relationships they might not have thought of or might be afraid to express out loud. Try talking to workers individually, especially those who seem more receptive."

"Don't start by using a lunchroom or platform for a 'soapbox oration.'"

Literature could be given out individually or stuck up in bathrooms at the beginning. Discuss in your group when to start giving it out en masse . . . at the fates. . .

"Don't start in with broadsides against the union leadership, even if workers initiate the sellout talk. Listen, ask questions, ask if anything was ever done to overcome it, suggest types of fights around grievances, immediate things, if you can figure some out. But don't feel compelled (in your three-month sojourn) to give leadership on any and all questions. . ."

The manual makes clear that this summer is to lay the groundwork for future operations:

"Try to make a few friends among the workers that might last beyond the summer . . . And try to get their addresses and phone numbers before you leave the job . . . Join the bowling league or the baseball team . . . Go to the bar or whatever hangout they go to after work. Don't try to overdo yourself here. If you can't hold your liquor, don't make a fool of yourself trying to be what you think is 'one of the boys.' Get to work early — sit around and talk . . .

"Don't get into knock-down, drag-out arguments . . . but rather talk individually first to the ones you're making friends with . . .

"After being there about a month try to pick out a few workers who might be more advanced than the rest, concentrating more on individual discussion with the hope of keeping them as friends, or contacts after you leave the place . . .

"Talk about the possibilities of the students offering the workers assistance in any struggles coming up in the future, on picket lines, demonstrations, even doing research for them. . .

(Knowledge) of what the in-plant grievances are will help if there is to be follow-up along lines of worker-student alliance activity when you get back to school. You will be able to relate leaflets . . . to the actual problems inside the gates."

Fish may be stupid, but we've never heard of one getting third-degree sunburn while sitting in a rowboat waiting to catch a man.

Considering the rapidity with which some mail is NOT moving these days, perhaps they'd better rename it "hair mail."

Computer world

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla.—With Apollo 10 and our three astronauts poised on the moon-shot pad, who can conceive what must be achieved? No human being can—but a computer can.

You simply have to see these whirling Solomons at work here even to imagine what's happening.

They make mistakes. Actually, a giant computer makes an error about every 30 minutes. But this is equivalent to one human error every 18 years, so much work does it do before making a mistake. And they are costly. The computers built for a moon-shot cost $80 million. But they can do in a few hours all the arithmetic estimated ever to have been done by hand by everyone in all recorded history.

In February, 1927 Ryan Aircraft engineer Donald A. Hall designed in 30 days the craft that carried Charles A. Lindbergh 3,610 miles across the Atlantic and into the history books of the century. But the Saturn V moon rocket launched here had five million functioning parts. Its Apollo space-ship section had two million more. If the combination were only 99.9 percent reliable, there would be more than 5,000 defective parts. And that's the kind of engineering problem that goes beyond human brainpower.

Other space scientists here now speak of distances as great as 500 light years. A light year is six million-million miles, the distance light travels in a year at its speed of 186,000 miles a second. At Columbia University physicist Gerald Feinberg is even theorizing how to accelerate man close to the velocity of light.

The moon periodically accounts for bulges of as much as three inches on our earth's surface, as well as accounting for the tides. The giant planet Jupiter, ruling 12 moons and larger than all the other planets put together, is now suspected of other influences on our earth. No computers: no answer. Mars, half the earth's size, is 35 million miles away. Our Mariner came relatively close to a Mars landing. The daytime temperature is boiling and it drops to 150 degrees below zero every night. No computers; no knowledge of this.

Essential purposes? By-products can have value. Columbus started out to solve a trade problem with China, and that still isn't solved. But the by-products turned out to be important.

We now fly jets at twice the speed of sound. They may well be flying at eight or 10 times the speed of sound by the late '70's. This can be achieved only by creating new materials. Without computers they are literally an impossibility.

At 250 miles high the rarefaction of the air is three times greater than the vacuum in a TV tube. The computers must compute a fan to suck it in. A jet airliner is more perfectly streamlined than an arrow. The calculations for the Boeing supersonic transport's wing alone would have taken the company's engineers 20 years. No computers; no SSTs.

Geodesy is the science of determining exactly the relative position of points on the earth's surface. Long-range missiles require measuring relative launching site-target positions with immense precision. No computers; no long-range missiles; no antimissile defense screen. Who can conceive of what's called here Acquisition Radar—detecting a missile within 10 minutes after it is launched deep in Russia?

Designing the newest nuclear reactors will require about 100 billion—yes, billion—computations. Electronic machines like those here will provide the answers in a single day.

Univac III is capable of handling 800,000 signals a second. Our Central Intelligence Agency now has a converter that turns Russian into English at the rate of 30,000 words an hour. And so it goes. Hitched to a computer, a photometric camera invented by Ed Waller of Cinerama fame can measure a man for a suit of clothes in one-fiftieth of a second.

Within three generations we have seen created the automobile age, the radio-TV-radar-electronic age, the atomic age, the jet age, the computer age, and the space age. The geometric progression of knowledge and its telescoping of time is almost incredible. But in this abrupt outburst perhaps the most astounding of all is the estimate that about 90 percent of all the scientists born since the dawn of mankind are still alive. (Copyright, 1969, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Dear Abby

Sonny's 45--but mom won't let go!

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 45-year-old man who meets his girl on street corners because if his mother finds out he's serious about anybody just yet it might "upset" her. The girl is 39.

I am the girl and I am sick of it. If I want to talk to him on the phone I have to have some man call and ask for him because his mother won't call him to the phone if it's a woman's voice. It's not that she doesn't LIKE me. She hasn't even MET me.

Sonny says he doesn't want to "upset" her—but he has been upsetting ME for six years. His mother has been a widow since Sonny was 4. She has money which Sonny will get when his mother dies, but she's only 66 and healthy as a horse. I'd like to get married and I love Sonny. What is your advice? SONNY'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: A 39-year-old "girl" who meets her boyfriend on street corners has a lot of growing up to do. And so does the 45-year-old boyfriend who meets her. Hide-and-go-seek is for children, so tell Sonny to rise already and introduce you to Mamma, or find another playmate.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are planning to go to Las Vegas soon. My problem is my husband's sister. She lives in Las Vegas with her husband and her family. Since this is going to be a vacation for us we would like to spend it in our own way, coming and going as we please. (We'll stay at a hotel) How can we make our wishes known without being tactless or curt? My sister-in-law likes to conduct your program from start to finish, which is most annoying. NAMELESS PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Use an elementary algebra rule. The shortest distance between two points is a straight line. Write (or call) and let her know that you'll "be seeing them" of course—but not to plan anything as you want the freedom to "play it by ear."

W.R. Brown, director of county publicity, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of Lompoc Farm Center, to be held at Forester's Hall next Tuesday evening.

The sweet peas of Lompoc! Hundreds of acres of them, being grown here by the seed companies, present one of the most colorful, most gorgeous landscapes it is possible to imagine.

The meeting of the Kiwanis Club was featured by the music week program arranged by Stanley Watts, chairman of the day. The talk of the evening was given by Judge Charles Foulson, who told of the history of music.

The City Council wants action on the off-street parking problem in the downtown shopping district and has advanced a proposal to get moving in at least one direction.

A fence erected on the rear property line behind the Flamingo development at "O" Street and Olive Avenue is giving city officials a new headache this week.

What possibly could be the last opportunity to head off a court battle between the City of Lompoc and Walt Holmdahl, a Miguelito Canyon rancher, may take place at the City Council meeting tomorrow night.
